About Safety Solutions

Safety Solutions have been providing training courses for over 25 years. We've evolved with, and contributed to, Ireland's world leading skills, education and workplace health standards.

With over 110 courses on offer we cover almost every sector – health, agriculture, fire, construction, warehousing, plant and machinery and so much more – the most modern and effective training available. Combined with our other services such as Safe Cert and Safe Track, Safety Solutions provides an unparalleled solution to your training needs.

Safety Solutions operates from a 15,000 square foot purpose designed training facility in Dublin 15. The facility accommodates the management and administrative teams, training and consultancy staff and a series of training and meeting rooms and associated facilities.

There are 6 training rooms, ranging in size, that can easily accommodate from 1 to 20 learners per course if required. There is also 4 acres of land which provides hard and soft surfaces for training which must be provided outside such as construction skills training.

About your training course

Here are nine steps – each are easy to do. Collectively they will make your training course more enjoyable and valuable

Before you attend

1. Review course materials.

If we have sent you materials, read them. Perhaps it is an outline of the learning objectives or agenda. Looking that over will give you a sense of what is to come and get your mind thinking about how these ideas might benefit you. If pre-reading is offered, reading it will prepare you further. The more prepared your mind is for the subject matter, the more connections you will make during the course, the more you will gain, and honestly, the easier it will be.

2. Think about what you would like to learn.

This is the most important thing you can do before the course begins. Think about (and write down) what you would like to learn from the course. Then take your answers to the training with you, reviewing them before the course begins (the trainer may ask for some info like this, and if they do, you are already prepared – no last minute pressure!). Ask yourself questions like:

- What would make this worth my time?
- What is my fondest wish for this training?
- What do I expect from this training?
- What is the best possible outcome that could arise from this training?
- What is the biggest question I'd like answered?

3. Think about your approach to the course.

Decide to bring an attitude that will help you learn. Be open-minded. Be positive (or at least not negative). Bring a smile. Think about it: how often have you learned successfully when you were stressed, cynical or negative? Remember that you chose your attitude. Decide now to bring one that will be beneficial, not a barrier to your learning.

During the course

4. Take responsibility for your learning.

Yes, there will be a trainer. Yes, they will be “in charge” of the course. But you are responsible for your learning, so do what you need to be successful. This could be anything from bringing a jumper if you might get cold, to bringing coffee if you need it, to asking the questions you want answers for. The course is for your learning. Make sure you get what you want and came for, and remove as many barriers from getting that as you can. Ultimately, you are responsible for your learning – so take that responsibility.

About your training course

5. Look for application.

The most important question you can ask yourself during any training is . . . “How can I use this?” Throughout the session, keep your mind open and your radar out for how you can apply what you are learning. Realise, too, that because you are away from your normal routine, you may get ideas that aren’t even directly related to the training – just consider those a bonus. Look for application, and write those ideas down so you don’t lose them!

6. Engage in the process.

Learning is an active process, so be an active participant. That doesn’t mean you have to answer every question or be the most talkative person in the group – it just means to actively engage in what is going on.

After You Leave

7. Decide what you will do next.

You may have time to do this before you leave the course. If so, great. Identify the top 1-3 things that you learned and what to apply in your work. Write them down, along with any quick thoughts on your plan of action. Writing these down provides clarity and focus. It also helps your commitment to success.

8. Teach something to someone else.

Take something that was useful or interesting to you and teach it to someone else. When you do that you begin to own the learning for yourself and you understand it better. Plus, you are benefiting someone else – and in teaching them, they might be able to hold you accountable for applying that lesson in your work too!

9. Take action.

You prepared for the course. You actively participated. You even decided what you would like to do. None of that matters unless you actually do something. If you want to get more from the time you have invested in going to training, make sure you try something you learned – until you do that, there is no real return on your investment.

Course Progression

Where next for your training journey?

For many of the courses Safety Solutions offers there are further opportunities for your development. Below is a table of some of the training courses you can progress towards.

Equality & Diversity

What is Equality and Diversity?

Equality and diversity, or multiculturalism, is the idea of promoting and accepting the differences between people. More specifically, equality is about ensuring individuals are treated fairly and equally, no matter their race, gender, age, disability, religion or sexual orientation. Diversity is about recognising and respecting these differences to create an all-inclusive atmosphere.

Promoting equality and diversity in education is essential for both teachers and students. The aim is to create an environment where all learners can thrive together and understand that individual characteristics make people unique and not 'different' in a negative way.

How we promote equality and multiculturalism during courses?

Promoting equality and diversity during courses need not be a challenge and is something that everyone should be familiar with.

Attending your course with us means that:

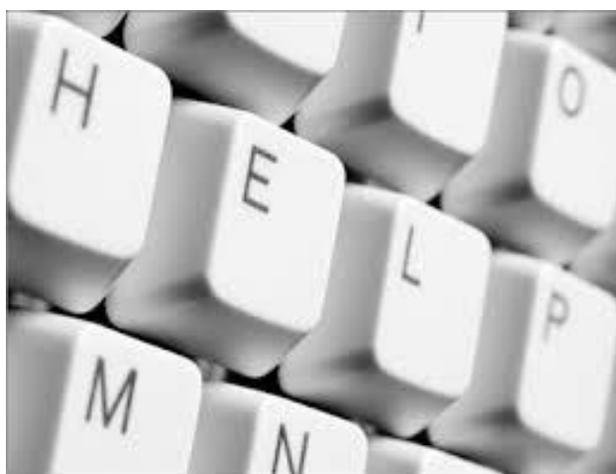

- We have clear rules in regards to how people should be treated.
- We do challenge any negative attitudes.
- We do treat all staff and learners fairly and equally.
- We do create an all-inclusive culture for staff and learners.
- We do avoid stereotypes in examples and resources.
- We use resources with multicultural themes.
- We actively promote multiculturalism in lessons.
- We plan courses that reflect the diversity of our learners.
- We do ensure all learners have equal access to opportunities and participation.
- We make sure that our learning materials do not discriminate against anyone and are adapted where necessary.
- We use a variety of teaching methods.
- We use a variety of assessment methods.
- We ensure our policies and procedures don't discriminate against anyone.

Learning Supports

Let a member of our customer service team or your instructor know as soon as possible if you might need some help before, during and after your course.

Here are some examples of why you might need some assistance (this list is not exhaustive):

- Access to resources out of course time (i.e. looking at online resources in preparation for the next day).
- Ability to perform practical elements and assessment due to an injury or impairment.
- Completing any theory assessments due to language or literacy barrier.
- Hearing or visual impairment.
- Unable to arrive on time or attend any part of the course due to an appointment or unforeseen circumstances.

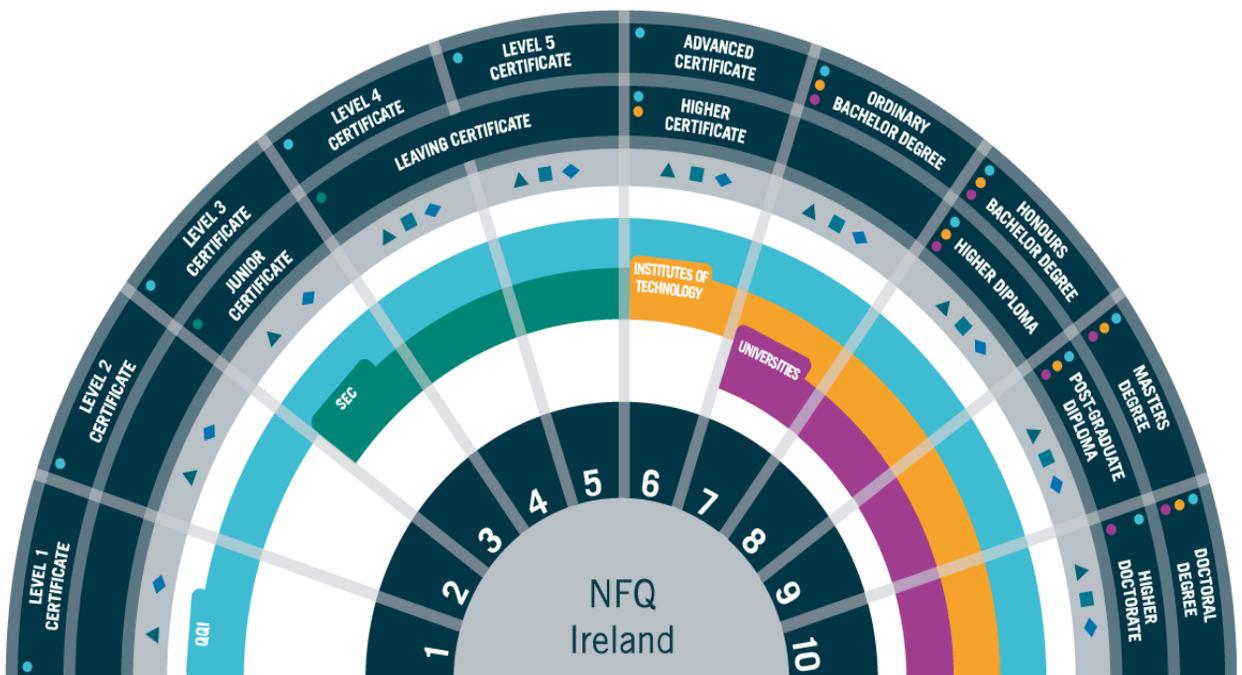

Adding Value to Qualifications

The European Union is the world's most open marketplace, where EU citizens are free to live, work, and study wherever they wish. As an Irish citizen, you enjoy the same freedom to find work and explore study opportunities anywhere in Europe. Taking advantage of this right becomes much easier when your qualifications are understood and valued across national borders.

Irish Qualifications In Context

Established in 2003, the Irish National Framework of Qualifications (NFQ) describes qualifications in terms of what learners know, understand and are able to do. It also sets out qualifications pathways from one NFQ level to the next.

The NFQ gives employers, education providers and learners a simple, transparent frame of reference for qualifications in Ireland.

Qualifications can Travel

Recognising qualifications across Europe and the UK

Increasingly, Irish people are using their qualifications to seek out work or further study opportunities around Europe. The same is true for many of those moving to Ireland from elsewhere in the EU. But European education and training systems are diverse and reflect national traditions.

Employers and institutions can easily compare qualifications across sectors, systems and countries by using the European Qualifications Framework (EQF). It has been designed to make qualifications more readable and understandable across countries and systems, the EQF supports cross-border mobility within the EU by allowing qualifications gained in any European country to be classified and organised into a simple eight level system. The EQF is well established in Ireland. Qualifications that are part of the Irish NFQ are assigned an EQF level. Ireland was the first country to implement the EQF in 2009 and now qualifications in Ireland enjoy European currency and recognition throughout Europe and beyond.

What is the European Qualifications Framework (EQF)?

The EQF is an overarching framework that links the qualifications frameworks of different European countries together. It covers qualifications at all levels and in all sub-systems of education and training (general and adult education, vocational education and training as well as higher education).

The main role of the EQF is to make qualifications more readable and understandable across different countries and systems. In this way, the EQF supports individual mobility and lifelong learning, helping those moving from one country to another to work, or to continue their education or training. European countries are encouraged to develop their national qualifications systems and to link those systems to the EQF.

The EQF level is increasingly referenced on graduation parchments, Certificate Supplements and Diploma Supplements for Irish education and training awards.

Levels 1 and 2 on the Irish NFQ have been referenced to Level 1 on the EQF.

This level typically includes qualifications that recognise the attainment of elementary knowledge, skills and competences.

Level 3 on the Irish NFQ has been referenced to Level 2 on the EQF.

This level typically includes vocational education and training qualifications and lower secondary general qualifications.

Level 4 on the Irish NFQ has been referenced to Level 3 on the EQF.

This level typically includes vocational education and training qualifications.

Level 5 on the Irish NFQ has been referenced to Level 4 on the EQF.

This level typically includes vocational education and training and upper secondary general qualifications.

Qualifications can Travel

Level 6 on the Irish NFQ has been referenced to Level 5 on the EQF.

This level typically includes vocational and higher education and training qualifications.

Levels 7 and 8 on the Irish NFQ has been referenced to Level 6 on the EQF.

This level typically includes undergraduate higher education and training qualifications.

Level 9 on the Irish NFQ has been referenced to Level 7 on the EQF.

This level typically includes post-graduate higher education and training qualifications.

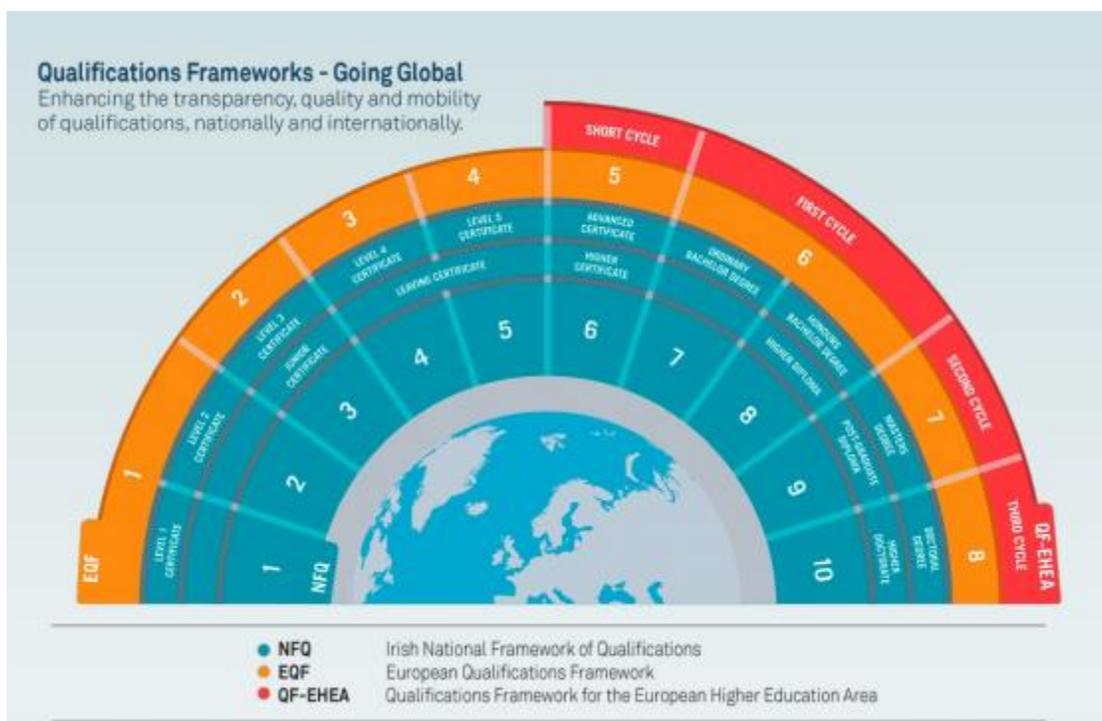

Level 10 on the Irish NFQ has been referenced to Level 8 on the EQF.

This level typically includes post-graduate higher education and training awards.

What is the European Higher Education Area (EHEA)?

The European Higher Education Area (EHEA) aims to facilitate cooperation between systems, institutions, and individual staff and students throughout the EHEA. This will make European higher education known and appreciated throughout the world. 48 countries worldwide are participating in the EHEA, working to implement its goals for quality and mobility. Further information on EHEA can be found at <http://www.ehea.info/>

The EHEA now includes the concept of a qualifications framework with an emphasis on learning outcomes. The undergraduate/postgraduate degree structure has been modified into a three-cycle system (bachelor, master and doctorate). Ireland's NFQ has been verified as compatible with that of the EHEA quality framework (QF-EHEA). This means that higher education and training qualifications from Ireland are consistent with the EHEA bachelor, master and doctorate cycles.

Our Appeals Procedure

You have the right of appeal if you are not satisfied with your assessment result.

Safety Solutions appeals process ensures that a clear and transparent appeals system is in place for learners to appeal assessment results which they consider to be unfair.

The appeals process enables learners to appeal if they perceive any irregularities or inequalities in the assessment of results.

How do I appeal?

You must set out the reasons for your appeal in a written statement (typed or hand-written) within 20 days of receiving your assessment result.

Your appeal can be sent by email to jroberts@safetysolutions.ie or post to:

Customer Service Manager
Safety Solutions Group
2 Lyncon Court
Snugborough Business & Technology Park
Blanchardstown
Dublin, D15 NP49

What happens with my appeal?

When your appeal is received an acknowledgement will be sent to you within 5 days. An independent assessor will fully investigate your assessment paying special attention to the reasons you have based your appeal on.

All assessment evidence and documentation (including any video or your assessment) will be thoroughly reviewed by the independent assessor.

The independent assessor will make either of the of the following recommendations:

- Agree with the original decision
- Uphold your appeal

The Customer Service Manager will inform you in writing (email or letter) of the independent assessor's decision.

If the independent assessor agrees with the original decision then you will be offered a place on the next available course. Full payment will be expected.

If the independent assessor upholds your appeal then the result will be amended and you will receive your award/certificate.

Other information

You do not have to pay anything to make an appeal.

Our Complaints Procedure

How do I complain?

If you are dissatisfied with a service provided by us, you should in the first instance consider speaking directly with the staff member/s you have been dealing with.

If you are uncomfortable with this or consider the relevant staff member is unable to address your concerns you can lodge a complaint with us in one of the following ways:
